

A proposed formula for Anti-Dilithium-BuckyBall

Anti-elements are created by exposing the element to the mind. In theory someone taking lithium should emit anti lithium and since they are not around significant does of other lithium there is no reaction as their quantities are quite limited as well.

I propose that we have a subject (I volunteer) to take a high dose of Lithium and drink bubbled Krypton, since it is the heaviest noble gas that is divisible by 3 and should therefore bind with anti-lithium as I predict that only noble elements can naturally be compounded with anti-elements.

I propose:
